

NUArts and the YWCA of the Niagara Frontier present

The Clothesline Project

NUArts will be presenting The Clothesline Project on the portico of the Castellani Art Museum Monday, Oct. 2, through Friday, Oct. 13, 2017.

All NU students, student organizations, staff and faculty are encouraged to participate, as are individuals and organizations throughout Niagara County. Completed t-shirts may be delivered to Michael Beam at the Castellani Art Museum anytime until Oct. 2, 2017.

The Clothesline Project is a visual display that bears witness to all forms of domestic and sexual violence. This national program takes place in communities across the United States and internationally. The Clothesline Project includes people from all backgrounds standing together who are committed to challenging outward and internalized homophobia, racism, sexism and other oppressions.

Our first year's goals:

- To bear witness to all who have experienced any type of domestic and/or sexual violence
- To help with the healing process for survivors and those who have lost a loved one
- To educate, document, and raise awareness of the extent of this problem in our community
- To provide a network of support, encouragement and information.
- To continue to provide a safe, respectful and inclusive campus for everyone.

For assistance on campus please contact the Counseling Center, Seton Hall, Lower Level at 716.286.8536.

For information about how to be connected with off-campus advocacy and counseling contact Rachel Sandle-Sacco, Sexual Violence Prevention Educator & Victim's Advocate at the YWCA of the Niagara Frontier, 716.433.6714 or rsandle@ywcanf.org. For immediate help please call our hotline 716.433.6716.

The Clothesline Project is presented in association with the Domestic Violence Awareness Event: Surviving ... Thriving: A Journey of Healing through Art, being held at the Castellani Art Museum on Thursday, Oct. 5, 2017, 5-8 p.m. Sponsored by Niagara University Department of Criminal Justice.

For more information, please contact Michael Beam, Curator of Exhibitions and Special Projects, at 716.286.8286 or mjbeam@niagara.edu.

Many on and off campus organizations have collaborated to make this event possible:

eliminating racism
empowering women
ywca

CASTELLANI
ART MUSEUM OF NIAGARA UNIVERSITY

For more information about The Clothesline Project, Inc. National Network visit www.clotheslineproject.org.